

ABSTRACT:

Audio reproduction systems are used to reproduce audio signals. A disadvantage of known audio reproduction systems is that in most cases with stereo or multi-channel signals the quality performance of reproduction is very much dependent on the listening position.

- 5           The invention proposes a solution by making it possible for the audio reproduction system to localize the position of the listener and amend the reproduced audio signal in dependence of the location.

Fig. 1

09041962-042501
T05240-29614860